CARING FOR THE GOOD BOOK.

How the Scriptures Were Preserved Previous to Their Translation.

The books of the law were the first books of the Bible to be collected by the priests and leaders of the Israelites; after the law came the written history of the people, in the Fifth century B. C., the collection of the prophets by Nehemiah; and from his time onward the collection of the prophets, the Psalms, Proverbs, Job, Canticles. All of these have been preserved by the priests, copied and re-copied as occasion required, and circulated in manuscripts, as of course all writings were circulated in those days.

The dispersion of the Hebrews and their acquisition of other languages and loss of the Hebrew language, necessitated the translation of the Scriptures into other than the Hebrew, and previous to the Second century B. C. what we know as the Septuagint translation—the LXX —was completed in Greek, designed especially for the Hebrews living in Alexandria and other parts of Egypt. The Septuagint comes from a tradition that seventy scholars—seventy-two actually —made the translation. Translations and revisions into the Aramaic were also made, and these translations were copied from time to time, so that the oldest manuscript of the Old Testament now extant is only about 1,400 years old.

The case is the same with the New Testament. It was written again and again, until now there are upward of 1,000 manuscripts for the Gospels and as many more for the rest of the New Testament. The oldest manuscripts are the Codex Sinaiticus and the Codex Vaticanus, which date from the Fourth century
A. D. So the books of the Bible were handed down, the old copies always being renewed before they wore out, the language being Hebrew, Greek and after A. D. 800, Latin. The latter, in the translation adopted by the Roman church, and known as the Vulgate, because commonly used in the Christian churches, was the first book printed, in 1450-5.

As far back as the Seventh century portions of the Vulgate were translated into English, and the early versions by Wyclif and his predecessors, by Parvey and others, were translations from the Vulgate. Tyndale used Luther's German translation of the Greek Bible.
The authorized version of King James was made by forty-seven scholars and finished in 1611; the manuscripts, so far as accessible, were consulted, the translators not restricting themselves to the Vulgate, but going to the Hebrew and Greek whenever they could.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A "Character" in France.
Recently a French gentleman, replying to an inquiry by a lady concerning the character and qualifications of a woman who had applied to her for the position of cook, and who had lately been in the gentleman's service, said that he could not recommend the applicant; that she was "extravagant, imperious and somewhat given to drink." The lady gave the letter to the applicant for the cook's position, who immediately brought suit for damages against the writer.

The case was decided against the writer of the letter, who was fined and admonished that he had no right to give circulation to injurious statements concerning another person, even if the charges were true.

In order to evade the responsibility
thus introduced in French law housekeepers have taken to issuing such "recommendations" as this:
"This certifies that Miss Hortense, late nurse to my son, and at one time, did not leave him on a lunch at the Jardin des Plantes and go away and forget him on the 20th of August last."

The certificate is intended to be taken in a contrary sense, and serves its purpose without laying the writer open to a suit for damages.—Youth's Companion.

A Problem.
Once there were two tramps who were actually looking for work. In the course of their wanderings they came upon a pile of coal in front of a palatial residence.

Said the tramp with the inferior intellect, "Let us engage ourselves to stack away this fuel at a price of twenty-five cents." "Nay, nay," said the tramp of superior intellect; "let me go within and negotiate."

And he did negotiate and secured the job at a rate of fifty cents, of which sum he gave one-half to his companion to perform the necessary manual labor, reserving one-half unto himself for superintending operations.

Whereat he of the inferior business ability, though he had received twice the amount of work he expected and at his own rate of compensation, lifted up his voice in wrath and sworn by various deities that he had been tricked.

Was he right?—Indianapolis Journal.

What Men and Women Tell.
There is one radical difference between men and women that "it may be said generally of novelists, that men know more than they tell, and women tell more than they know." It may be true of novelists. In real life neither tells all he or she knows, and the difference shows in what they keep.

A woman tells the thing that is not vital. She will tell some one almost every detail of her daily life, but let her have a heart story, and she not only keeps it locked in, but she lives as though it had no existence.

A man scorns to relieve his mind of little worries by asking for sympathy.
But let a great secret come into his life—
he dies unless he tells it to some one.
He will do it even when it brings him in the shadow of death or bitterest disgrace.—Charles Dudley Warner in Harper's.

TO SUSPEND PUBLICATION.

The Territorial Enterprise, published in Virginia City, is to suspend publication in compliance with an order of D. O. Mills. It is owned by the Bank of California, the Virginia & Truckee Railroad Company and J. W. Mackay, who purchased it nearly twenty years ago from Joseph T. Goodman.

The Enterprise was first published in Genoa, Douglas county, in 1859, by Colonel Williams and William Jernegan when the Territory now comprising the State of Nevada was a part of Brigham Young's dominion. It advocated the secession of Nevada from Utah and the organization of a provisional government. When Isaac Roop of Susanville was elected Governor of Nevada at the time the provisional government was organized, Carson was selected as the Capital of the Territory and the Enterprise was moved there. Subsequently it was established in Virginia City, and for years was the leading newspaper of Nevada. It was conducted by J. T. Goodman and D. E. McCarthy, Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) and William Wright (Dan D. Quille), Rollin M. Daggett and C. C. Goodwin, all of them noted writers, were connected with the Enterprise editorially or as reporters. It is said that R. M. Daggett, who was its principal editor for years, received a salary of $6,000 a year for his services.

The fact that the Enterprise was owned by banking and railroad corporations operated against it. In the recent campaign it opposed the silver movement and lost what influence it may have had with the people. Rumor had it that it was conducted at a loss to its owners for years, and D. O. Mills, who is one of them, it seems, ordered it to suspend publication.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

The sixteenth session of the Nevada Legislature will convene in Carson tomorrow. Under the Apportionment Act of the Legislature of 1891 the Senate will consist of fifteen members and the House of thirty members. Of the Senators, nine were holders, having been elected in 1890, and six were elected last November. All the new members and at least three of the holders are Silver party men. To organize the Senate eight votes, a majority of the body, are necessary. Three certainly and probably five of the holders will join the newly elected members and control the organization.

The thirty members of the Assembly are all Silver men. Two of them were nominated by the Democrats and two by the Republicans, but all except Altea of Churchill were pledged to support Weaver for President and Stewart for Senator, and Allen declared himself for Stewart both before and after his nomination. William M. Stewart will, therefore, receive the unanimous vote of the Assembly for United States Senator for six years from the 4th of March next.

There are three candidates for Speaker of the Assembly, Pike of Washoe county, Bull of Nye county and Russell of Elko county. The JOURNAL does not know that Mr. Russell is a pronounced candidate for the position, but it does know that Mr. Pike and Mr. Ball are. Both have firm supporters, but it is not likely that the contest will be long or bitter, and both houses will probably be organized and ready for business tomorrow.

SENATOR STANFORD.

Washington dispatches state that news was received in that city that Senator Stanford of California had fully decided to resign, though his term will not expire for two years. The San Francisco papers say that Senator Stanford, when asked if the report that he intended to resign was true, remarked that he would not be doing justice to his country or his party by resigning.

The Call says the Senator is ill, but not seriously so. He was taken sick about three weeks ago when preparing to leave for Washington, his illness having been caused by medicine which did not agree with him. Though still weak, he is rapidly recovering and will soon be able to go to Washington and attend to his Senatorial duties.

The resignation of Senator Stanford and the election of a Democrat to succeed him would give the Democrats control of the Senate.

The Denver News says Utah papers jibe at Nevada, but there is no ground for the derision. Nevada, small as it is, occupies a proud position in the sisterhood of States and is represented in the Senate by the greatest Senator of them all—the grand, eloquent Stewart.

CHANNERY DENKIN and General Horace Porter both keep elaborate soap books, as do all of the successful public speakers. They clip out every interesting anecdote, story and odd and humorous paragraph and preserve them for future use.

The Examiner says that in 1892 California shipped nearly 10,000,000 gallons of wine to New York alone, an increase of something less than 1,000,000 gallons compared with the previous year.

This ice in the harbor at New Bedford, Mass., is now five inches thick, and the crews from several imprisoned vessels walked on the ice to the Fairhaven shore yesterday.

The Grand Jury Dissatisfied With Stanford's Assessment.

HORRIBLE DEATH OF A LADY.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The House was considering the bill to promote the efficiency of the militia for a time, but it laid aside without action and proceeded to the consideration of the measure called up by the Committee on Indian Affairs.

The House Committee on Census appointed a sub-committee to draft a bill establishing a permanent census bureau. The Appropriations Committee has under consideration a proposition to abolish all pension agencies and pay the pensioners with checks direct from the Treasury. Secretary Foster of the Treasury said he rather favored the scheme.

The floor was then accorded the Committee on Indian Affairs. The first bill called up was one appropriating $8,595,000 to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Cherokee nation, which provided for the cession by the Cherokee Indians of the Cherokee Outlet, which contains about 3,000,000 acres.

An amendment was adopted allowing the government six years in which to pay the money and in the meantime pay five per cent interest.

On motion of Butler of Iowa an amendment was adopted providing that no person who is the owner of eighty acres of land or who is the owner of real estate in any city or town, the aggregate value of which exceeds $2,000, shall enter any land open to settlement. (The original bill made the restriction apply to owners of one hundred and sixty acres.)

After a further discussion and adoption of some minor amendments the bill was passed and the House adjourned.

SENATE.

In the Senate the Presidential electoral certificates from Oregon and South Dakota were presented and placed on file.

Coffery was appointed to the vacancy caused by the death of Gibson of Louisiana. He appeared and took the oath of office.

Wolcott of Colorado offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Foreign Relations to inquire what sums have been expended in and about the Nicaragua canal since the account of the expenditures heretofore rendered. He remarked that two years ago testimony taken by the Committee on Foreign Relations showed up to that time that about $3,000,000 had been expended, but it is now proposed to give the company $6,000,000 in bonds, guaranteed by the Government. He said that he did not suppose that it would be seriously contended that any such expenditure had been made by the company within the last two years, and that the purpose of his resolution was to ascertain what the actual expenditures had been.

Sherman, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, said he had no objection to the resolution. Two years ago, he said, the company had expended three million dollars and since then had expended considerable more, but not as much as six million dollars, but the amount actually expended was to be ascertained by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of State, and the maximum to be turned over to the company in guaranteed bonds not to exceed six millions.

Heard said that Congress should see that in the construction of the Nicaragua canal that daylight should be constantly turned on every transaction. The resolution was at the suggestion of Morgan laid over until Monday, and the resolution offered yesterday by Morgan, instructing the Committee on Commerce to inquire and report the advantages to the interests of the United States that would be afforded by the Nicaragua ship canal, was taken up and Morgan spoke. He said that logically Great Britain had just as much right as the United States to charter a canal company and take control of it, which it was proposed the United States should take, if Costa Rica and Nicaragua were to tender such overture to Great Britain, or if the owners of the concession were to take it to Great Britain and make the offer which they made to Congress, and if Great Britain should accept the United States would have one party—he would not say patriots—one emancipated plea, and that was as worn and torn and dirty as the Monroe doctrine, which the Senate of the United States had succeeded in kicking literally into the gutter.

Mr. Sherman asked Morgan to notice the objection made in some quarters that the owners of twelve millions of the stock of the company would have undue influence in the management of the corporation. Morgan replied that in the impending bill the power of the Government was observed in the control of the operations of the company, for the Government was to own eighty and a half millions of the one hundred millions of stock and would therefore have control as far as the direction of the company was concerned.

Speaking of the provision of the bill for ten Government directors, out of 151, Morgan said if the French government had had its own directors in the Panama Canal Company, the robberies which had disgraced and nearly robbed the French Republic would not have been perpetrated, and that the fraud and corruption and villainy which was now shocking the sensibilities of that great and noble people would have been avoided.

Morgan spoke until a quarter past two, and then the Anti-Option bill was entitled to consideration, but Wolcott, in opposition to that measure, moved to proceed to the consideration of the first bill on the calendar. The vote on Wolcott's motion was 9 to 31. (No quorum.) Another motion by Wolcott to adjourn was defeated, but without a quorum. The roll call, however, disclosed the presence of 46 Senators.

Notice was given by Washburn, at Sherman's instigation, that he would ask the Senate to remain in session next Wednesday until a final vote was reached. The Senate then went into executive session.

After a brief executive session the Senate adjourned.

Kansas Legislature.

POPEKA, Jan. 14.—The rival Houses assembled this morning and proceeded industriously to do nothing.

The debate in the Senate over the recognition of the Populist House came up this morning on the presentation of the House concurrent resolution by O'Brien (Fusion-Democrat).

A hot debate followed, and Dillard (Populist) joined O'Brien and Taylor (Populists), saying that he and his sympathies were with the Populists and he had every reason for siding with them, but it was simply a matter of right and wrong in this matter, and he must protest against any recognition of the House.

The Populist caucus had determined to rush the matter through, and after two speeches from O'Brien, who led the fight for the opposition, they demanded the previous question. The motion was lost by a vote of 22 to 17.

This was really a test vote, showing the Populist strength sufficiently and the determination to recognize the Populist House in fixed.

At 3:30 this afternoon the Secretary of the Senate announced to Speaker Dunsmore that the Senate has recognized the Populist House and had appointed the Senate members a joint committee to wait on the Governor and inform him that the Legislature was organized and ready for business.

The Dr. McGlynn Case.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Archbishop Sataliti, the permanent apostolic delegate in the United States, authorizes the publication of a statement in regard to the Pope's action in the case of Dr. McGlynn.

"On the very day of the reconciliation of Dr. McGlynn with the church," he says, "public notice was given of it with the statement that Sataliti was absolved from censure and reconciled Dr. McGlynn and, moreover, absolution was given because McGlynn willingly accepted the conditions laid down by the holy father as necessary and significant."

This information, so expressed, should have sufficed to satisfy every one with the reconciliation; also it is hereby publicly made known that Dr. McGlynn, besides professing adherence to all the doctrines and teachings of the Catholic Church, expressed his regret for any word or act of his that may have seemed lacking in the respect due the ecclesiastical authority. Finally Dr. McGlynn of his own free will declares and promises he will go to Rome in the spirit and intention which is becoming to a good Catholic and priest. Then it is well to note how deplorable it is that this reconciliation should have been discussed as it has been in the newspapers in such a manner that private and lay persons dared to pass upon it harsh reproach and ill considered censures.

One mile—Revolver won, Initiation second, Cyclone third. Time 1:43. Five furlongs—Dewdrop won, Haywood second, Gaudaloupe third. Time, 1:02. Five furlongs—Alfred B. won, Bell D. second, McGinnis first third. Time, 1:02. One mile—light weight prize—Atlas won, Folly second, Prince third. Time, 1:47 1/2.

Want Stanford's Assessment Raised.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—The grand jury of Santa Clara county, in which Senator Stanford's celebrated Palo Alto stock farm is located, rendered a report yesterday. It says that Senator Stanford's horses were assessed for the year 1892 at a valuation of $43,000 while in the estimation of the grand jury $500,000 would be a fairer assessment for the trotting and thoroughbred stock. The buildings and improvements are assessed at $100,000, while the valuation thereof is at least $1,200,000. These improvements include the buildings of the Leland Stanford, Jr., University.

W. S. Ladd's Will.

PORTLAND, Jan. 14.—The will of the late W. S. Ladd was filed for probate this afternoon. Carolina A. Ladd, widow of deceased, and three sons were named as executors.

The widow was bequeathed a large amount of real estate and an annuity of $25,000. To the three sons is left all the interest in the banking firm. Forty-five thousand is left in trust for charity. After numerous smaller bequests to relatives the remainder of the estate, which constitutes the bulk of the property, is divided between the widow, three sons and two daughters.

Little Marthaena Battered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Little Marthaena Harrison continues to improve and danger from infection is believed to have been removed from the White House.

The Way Cyclones Turn. The question is often asked, Why do cyclones, "whirlwinds" and tornadoes all persist in the polar whirl from right to left? Astronomical speculators have supposed that all the planets once existed as rings of thinly scattered matter around the sun, and that these rings were annular segregations from a vague, irregularly scattered mass that turned one way in spiral courses, thus determining the direction in which the rings revolved, and all the rest from this the same course.

"But," you say, "why did the nebula revolve at all?" It grew from chaos, and chaos presumably possessed an inherent motion from right to left. This being the case, from that time to this, sun, moon, stars, planets, cyclones and tornadoes have adhered to the original habit.—St. Louis Republic.

Japanese Hairpins. Japanese women put up their hair with wooden, ivory or tortoise shell pins seven or eight inches in length and fully half an inch wide. The pins are usually carved, and are often capped with pivoted figures, which dance with every motion of the wearer.—Baltimore Herald.

The Sosanville Mail says Smoke Creek has been so high that William Shirk of Stein Mountain and S. H. Crow were compelled to stretch a rope across the stream to enable them to ford it.

IMMIGRATION MEETING

All That Reno Lacks Is Satisfactory Advertising.

There was a very slim attendance at the Opera House last evening, in fact there were not more than seventy-five people present. It is certainly to be regretted that our people do not take more interest in a matter of such vital importance as that which was to be discussed at the meeting, as the very prosperity and life of the State depends upon the success of securing immigration. If we did not have the means and wherewithal to sustain immigration the matter would be entirely different, but under existing circumstances there is no place in the wide world that can offer a better inducement to those seeking investment for capital or those in quest of health than the city of Reno.

Nothing daunted by the small attendance, the Chairman, Hon. Wm. Webster, introduced Rev. T. Magill, Gen. C. O. Powning, T. V. Julien and H. H. Beck, who respectively addressed the meeting on the requirements of the time. Each showed clearly the advantages to be gained by encouraging immigration into the State.

Colorado Springs was taken as a comparison to Reno. There was no such place known until long after Reno had become quite a town, but what is the difference between the two places to-day?

The Springs sustain a population of over 12,000, with a prospect of increasing it two-fold within the next five years, while Reno has but a population of about 6,000, and unless something is done in the near future it is doubtful if that number can be claimed two years hence.

What is the cause of the vast difference in the two places so nearly allied? The people of the former, when it comes to a matter of bringing the advantages of the place before the outside world, go hand in hand and pull together, and where there is a concentration of effort the result cannot but be successful. If means are required to advertise the resources, money in any amount is forthcoming, and by this undaunted enterprise and good-will, capitalists have flocked into the city and made it what it is. There is no doubting the healthfulness of its climate, but will not that of Reno surpass it?

What have the people of Reno done in the way of advertising its resources and salubrious and health-giving climate? Virtually nothing. We are in possession of the features which every investor first looks to, especially so if a man of family—the finest educational institutions and the healthiest possible climates. The attractiveness of the city itself is unequalled and its surroundings are certainly pleasing to the eye.

All that is needed to place Reno in the position it rightfully should occupy—namely Nature's greatest sanitarium—is to let the outside world know there is such a place, and that if in quest of health or investment no better location can be found. But to do all this requires capital, and unless our citizens and property owners will pull together, and not charge the individual or individual's who take interest enough in the matter to take the lead, and endeavor to do that which will result in benefit to all, with endeavoring to advance it in effect at the expense of the many, the proper results can never be attained.

Such were the sentiments expressed by each and all of the speakers, and who can help but coincide with their views?

Of course no definite results were attained at this meeting, but another will be held in the near future, and it is to be hoped that our business men will take interest enough in the matter to be in attendance.

Reno is not what she should be and if those who have it in their power to do so will put their shoulders to the wheel and push in unison she will be lifted to the plane she rightfully should occupy.

A Steamer for Honey Lake.
The Amodeo Goyser says the Honey Lake Transportation Company has been organized to place a steamer on Honey Lake. The steamer will be 40 feet long and the lower deck will project over the hull of the vessel so that it will be nearly thirty feet in width at its widest point. Double engines will be used, of course, and the engine room will be entirely distinct from the passenger cabin. The pilot house will be placed directly above the passenger cabin on the fore part of the boat, but the steering apparatus will be so arranged that the course of the boat may be directed from the engine room.

Her engines will develop power enough to enable her to make the trip in less than five hours, or more than ten miles an hour including short stops.

Barges will be constructed to carry the heavy freight and all to be in operation on or before the first day of June, 1893.

Brutal Officials.
Some three weeks ago, says the Dayton Times, an old man named Cyrus Moore, who has lived in the Pinenut hills for many years and chopped wood, was found dead in his cabin by Charles Weathers. Mr. Weathers went to the Commissioners of Douglas county and reported the facts, but they claimed that Moore was a resident of Lyon, county and would have nothing to do with the matter. Weathers informed him that Moore lived in Douglas county, and always had lived there, and then went back to the cabin and buried Moore. Mr. Moore some years ago used to come to Dayton occasionally, and he received remittances of money from relatives in the East. Who his people are is not known, but it would have been nothing more than humanity for the Douglas County Commissioners to have investigated the matter.

NEVADA AND CALIFORNIA BOUNDARY

California Claims Another Slice of This State.

The San Francisco Bulletin says: "Captain William Elmbek of Washington, D. C., has on hand an important mission, which may result in decreasing the area of Nevada by a good many thousand acres."

The area, if it is to be added to California, will be sliced off the western side of Nevada. It will take in some of the richest portion of the fertile Carson Valley and a lot of the mining country of Mono, Inyo and San Bernardino counties will be extended.

"Captain Elmbek, who is an assistant in the Coast Survey, has been ordered to make a resurvey of that portion of the boundary line of California lying between Lake Tahoe and The Needles. This resurvey was ordered by Superintendent Mendenhall, following the instructions of a bill passed by the last Congress making the appropriation for this purpose. The last California Legislature also asked for this resurvey."

"It appears that a slight error in the accepted Von Schmidt survey of the eastern boundary of the State is recognized. This error it is calculated, may at places make a difference of fully three miles—that is, the California line may be pushed east into Nevada that much. How the error changed is a matter of dispute among scientists. It came about largely because of a clumsy description of the State boundary, a close following of which would have compelled the surveyors to locate an angle monument at a point in Lake Tahoe where the water is 1,000 feet deep."

"Captain Elmbek has for some years been located in upper Nevada and Utah doing triangulation work. He is expected on the coast this month when he will proceed to The Needles and organize a party to go ahead with the survey."

SILVER CITY EXCITED.

Very Rich Gold Quartz Discovered.

Silver City is excited from the Devil's Gate to the Dayton mine. Everybody is jubilant over the discovery of a gold mine, specimens of which assay from $20,000 to $40,000 to the ton. The discovery was made in the Red Jacket mine, which is situated near the celebrated Oost mine. Rich gold bearing quartz has also been struck in a mine owned by Lothrop & Co. of Dayton. This mine is paying well and the prospects for a bonanza are encouraging. General Keating and others own a mine adjoining the Red Jacket and are preparing to commence work on an extensive scale. Principal Barney of the Silver City public school says the town of Silver City is flourishing and these rich mines will greatly increase its prosperity.

HOP CULTURE.

A Practical Test to be Made at Lovelock.

The New Era says the cultivation of hops for the market has been commenced on the ranch of J. H. Thies at Lovelock. Mr. Thies has sent to Sacramento and Washington for roots and will get the best obtainable so as to thoroughly test the climate and soil by practical experiment.

The Era says hop growing is not in the experimental stage in Nevada, for the plant is indigenous, growing wild in nearly every canyon of the State, entwining around willow, cottonwood and other native trees, forming a dense foliage in many a sequestered nook, demonstrating the adaptability of the soil and climate.

Spider and Fly.

M. B. Leavitt's new spectacular production, "Spider and Fly," will appear at McKusick's Opera House Friday, January 20.

It is no easy matter to describe all the attractive features which have been crowded into the prologue and three acts of "Spider and Fly," with its manifold novelties and a host of talented performers, which were mostly recruited abroad, and its wealth of beautiful costumes, gorgeous scenery, armor, mechanical effects, transformations, sparkling music, novel specialties, clever pantomime, brilliant ballet and evolutions. It presents an entertainment in which the brightest features of comedy, pantomime, opera, and specialty are artistically blended. There are sixty people in this season's production, and they are said to embrace the very choicest of European celebrities and America's best pantomimists, comedians, vocalists, specialists and barlesque artists.

Blaine's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Blaine passed another uneventful night. Dr. Johnston, on leaving the house at 6 o'clock this morning, said the patient was resting comfortably and was slightly stronger than last evening. The physician evaded a direct reply to the question whether he considered Blaine in a dying condition, by saying that he was constantly growing weaker. His condition is susceptible to the slightest changes, but he did not seem to be in immediate danger of dissolution.

While more or less nourishment was given Blaine, the doctor admitted that he was living on stimulants, and several times his life had been recalled by the administration of nitro-glycerine, which in its results even surprised the physicians. It was evident that Dr. Johnston was mystified at Blaine's wonderful vitality.

At 10 a. m. the attendants said that Blaine had not passed a very good night, but seemed a little better than an hour before. He was somewhat restless during the night and seemed to be slowly losing strength, even when free from distressing symptoms.

After 11 o'clock Dr. Johnston said that Blaine to-day was better, fresher and stronger than yesterday.

Sherman on the Silver Repeal Bill.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Prompted by an intimation from the ex-Secretary that but for the disposition among Republican Senators to embarrass Cleveland, the silver repeal bill could be passed in the Senate, Senator Sherman has prepared a statement for the ledger, in which he will say: "It is as well known as anything can be that a large majority of the Republican Senators, including myself, are decidedly in favor of the repeal or suspension of the purchase of a silver dollar. They are ready to-day, to-morrow or any moment to vote for such a repeal. It is equally well known that not more than one-fourth or one-fifth of the Democratic Senators favor such a repeal and they will resort to extreme measures to prevent it. They are openly pronounced for the free coinage of silver or the continuance of the existing law. The pretense made that the Republican Senators would sacrifice public interests for a mere political scheme is without foundation, and I feel like denouncing it. If the Democratic party will furnish a contingent of ten Senators in support of the repeal of the Silver Act of 1890 it will pass the Senate within ten days. As for Bayard, he stands where he always stood on financial questions, substantially right, but acting with the party which is wrong on such questions."

FLOWERS AND LOVE.

HUGE SUMS ARE OFTEN SPENT BY SENTIMENTAL FELLOWS.

Baskets of Rare Blossoms That Cost the Ardent Youth Hundreds of Dollars.

Florists in New York City Do a Thriving Business in All Seasons.

"I want to be hung up." When a dapper young "blood" or an old Gotham dandy comes into a floral establishment in Fifth Avenue some bright fall afternoon and uses the above expression, at the same time winking the other eye, the tradesman knows that the customer is in love, and that this is perhaps the beginning of a long campaign in which the principal scene is to be Cupid dallying amid flowers.

In that case there will be no limit to the hanging up matter. Every swell Gotham florist knows that his customers seldom pay cash for the floral decoration to their love affairs. There is plenty of risk in the business, but the profits are so large that the tradesman takes the risks.

You would be surprised at the number of men in swell circles who play "broke" to their florist.

"Chase me, chase me."

This is what they say when the tradesman presents a bill.

Thousands and thousands of dollars are spent yearly by the young dandies of the old chappies of Gotham on their favorite accessories.

"Black Crook" some night, and there on sight falls under the fascination of the chorus girl's fair beauty. If you are cynical or dyspeptic you will have your doubts about her age and her hair; but Cholly is in raptures all evening.

That night he hangs around the stage entrance.

Next day he goes to his florist, takes that worthy aside and tells him all about it.

"I think a $100 basket will do, eh?"

Cholly nods.

"I will make you a basket four feet high. It will be delivered over the foot-lights promptly at 9 o'clock. It will be decorated with very wide pink and blue satin ribbon a yard long. For a hundred dollars I will put a couple of doves in the basket, concealed amid the roses. The doves will have satin ribbons tied to their feet. As the basket is handed over the lights the attendant shakes the savor, and out fly the doves. Ah, old fellow, what do you say to that, eh?"

"Very-very, hang me up for two hanged, dandies."

It is a common thing for a swell New York florist to prepare a $300 basket for some actress.

To order a $100 basket is a commonplace.

A $300 basket usually consists of curled roses, generally American Beauties, of rare size and sweetness. The flowers are cut with the stalks, and when placed in the gold tinted basket stand four feet high.

The offering is tricked out with great widths of blue, gold, pink or yellow ribbon. In the center of the bouquet space is left for a satin or lace box. The usual protestations of regard are written on scented note paper. This is the opening of the romance.

Little Miss Million receives roses in January.

They are rare American Beauties. They cost in Fifth Avenue $1.50 per rose. That is eighteen dollars a dozen. Maybe she gets two dozen a day in a big blue and gold box.

Cholly pays for these.

"There are hundreds of high rollers in Gotham," says the exclusive florist, "who spend enough each season to keep a family—spend it on flowers for the giddy queen of the footlights and upon their lady loves.

"It is not uncommon to receive an order from some young dude to deliver to his lady friend a bouquet each morning, say for a month. He will plunk down $150 with the order. For this sum we are to send little Miss Million a bunch of selected roses for thirty mornings. There is to be an air of romance over the gift.

It is to be sent to the house promptly at 9 o'clock each morning. No note or name is to accompany it. Little Miss Million is not to know, you know. Of course he will call each night and see his flowers on the piano. Maybe one night he will be rewarded by seeing her wear one beautiful rose in her yellow hair. I am sure that is worth $150 to any young chappie."

There is no limit to the money that may be paid for floral decorations for a swell Gotham dandy.

The late lamented Patrick S. Gilmore's funeral was made memorable with offerings whose value ran up into the thousands, but it is as sweet to know, however, that many of these flowers came from the common people, who loved him so well in life.

General Grant's funeral was graced, swell florists say, with more flowers than New York ever saw before or since.

In Gotham the "floral emblem" holds full sway in the matter of appropriate tributes to death.

In Gotham, if you are an athlete, your friends will probably remember you with a pair of "floral boxing gloves" at your demise.

In Gotham, if you die at half past 8, your friends will probably remember you with a grand "floral half clock," the hands stopped at half past 8.

In Gotham, if you die a letter carrier, your friends will probably remember you with a "floral lamp-post and mailbox," with a letter to yourself on top of the box, addressed with your name and the legend, "At rest in heaven."

In Gotham, if you die a railroad man, your friends will probably remember you with a "floral train of cars," engine and all.

In Gotham, if you are connected with the Brooklyn bridge and should chance to die, your friends will probably remember you with a "floral Brooklyn bridge," maybe nine feet long.

In Gotham, if you are to die a dude or a chappie, your friends will probably remember you with a floral swiggette case" bearing the words on the cover: "CHOLLY—GONE UP HIGHER."
